*DON'T LOOK AT ME
I'M SHY*

Works by Alex Wilmott

These works comprise the exhibition DON'T LOOK AT ME I'M SHY
at One Paved Court, October 2018.

My work is unashamedly autobiographical and is particularly concerned with my experience of depression and the questioning of self that accompanies it. I take moments, memories and emotions and explore them through varied media including photography, video, text, sculpture and sound.

I see my work as a way of reconciling contradictory feelings into a world that otherwise wouldn't hold a place for them. One of the most effective ways for these to be expressed, for me, is through self-portraiture.

These works are part of a quest to understand reluctant elements of my sexuality and my relationship with physical intimacy.
